Chairman Frederick L. Hill Bureau of Zoning Adjustment

Dear Chairman Hill,

I am writing in support of the Maret School's application for an Athletic Fields Project at the Episcopal Center for Children located at 5901 Utah Avenue, NW (BZA Application No. 20643). I have lived in Washington, DC for 27 years and currently live in ANC 3G/Ward 4. All three of my children were born here in the District and attended Maret School; currently one is an 8th grader, another is an 11th grader and one recent alumni. All three of my children have participated in a variety of sports at a number of locations around Washington, DC over the last 15 plus years, so we are familiar with the shortage of playing facilities in the District.

We see Maret's partnership with the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) as a win-win-win scenario. The athletic fields as proposed at ECC would meet Maret's long-term need for regulation-size fields for its high school baseball, soccer, lacrosse, and football programs. The ECC gets much needed support for its mission that will enable it to resume programming to meet the needs of the student population it serves.

Finally, the people in the neighborhood and kids from around the District get access to quality athletic field space in the District that can be shared both by neighbors and a variety of youth sports organizations. Maret School's mission focuses on the importance of community and the School has always sought to be a good neighbor and member of the DC community. Over the last 20 years Maret has developed long standing relationships with dozens of organizations in the District, including Horizons Greater Washington, an organization for which Maret has hosted six-week summer enrichment program for students from under-resourced communities in Washington, DC.

Most importantly, Maret has demonstrated that commitment by offering its field and gyms to outside community groups, providing much-needed recreational space to DC residents. Finally, this initiative will provide additional environmental benefits to neighbors in the form of enhanced stormwater runoff mitigation. Much as residents of Woodley Park value Maret as a community partner and neighborhood resource, we feel residents who live nearby the ECC will come to appreciate this environmental investment as well as the School's regular open communication and responsiveness to their concerns. I am sure some neighbors have concerns about change in their community.

Maret's proposal, working in partnership with the ECC, will have a much more minimal impact than some other kinds of changes that could occur if other types of more commercially-minded projects took over this space. What is clear is that change will occur, regardless of neighbors preferences. We feel strongly that Maret's intentional approach and history of community engagement will create minimal impact while providing significant benefit for the community, as well as kids from around the District. Thanks for your time and consideration of this letter.

Sincerely,

Nate Tibbits

Dear Chairman Hill,

Good afternoon! I'm writing with comments in support of Maret School's proposed fields at the Episcopal Center for Children. The need for athletic fields outstrips supply in our area of DC. I have been a Ward 4 resident for 12 years, with 10 of those years as a soccer parent. We moved from nearby Arlington, VA, in part to be closer to practices and game locations for my son's school and recreation league, which are both here in DC. As he progressed through the age levels, we drove all over Northwest, usually driving far longer distances than we had while soccer parenting in Arlington.

To drive back and forth to the Palisades neighborhood, at the literal opposite side of the District, for dinner-hour practices seemed both a waste of time and a shame for rush-hour traffic. In the rare years that our games were in Ward 4, our team had a home-team advantage at the poorly maintained Carter Barron fields, where a large hole in the field provided a barrier to the opposing teams.

A friend of mine who currently coaches her two young sons' teams shared her frustration with field availability, noting that finding practice time on fields is "nearly impossible," and that she schedules all team games in Takoma Park, MD, since there are no good times for home games available here in Ward 4.

Planning an additional field at the ECC site seems like a reasonable and needed addition. Most of the soccer fields we drove to during our decade of sports were in residential neighborhoods, and it was a great way to get to know the city. Discovering such gems as nearby Broad Branch market was all due to being welcomed to various fields around town. Parking was rarely a problem at such fields -- especially in locations such as Wilson High School along Nebraska Avenue, NW -- which have large frontages.

My name is Sarah Bowman, I live at 1801 Shepherd St NW, Washington, DC 20011 in Ward 4. My phone number is 202-468-2040 and my email is sarahbvmd@gmail.com. I am writing to provide comments in support of the proposed Maret fields at the ECC.

As a Maret alum and now current parent to two students at Maret, I have lived and experienced the need for field space for our community and Maret students. Maret has been working for years to secure usable regulation field space for its students. Maret is an amazing school that supports all aspects of student life. It is an incredibly tight knit community and allows all students to be successful and have opportunities that they may not get in larger schools.

It doesn't matter if you are top in your class or captain of the soccer team or editor of the yearbook or lead actor in the school play, you are given the same warmth and support from your schoolmates and teachers no matter the achievement. Having increased field space nearby that we can call our own is vital to continuing to foster the community spirit and allow everyone an opportunity for success and encouragement.

Maret has always been a respectful neighbor to the residents around our campus in Woodley Park and also in Georgetown to those residents around Jelleff. field. Maret is considerate of neighborhood concerns and listens and adjusts plans with respect to those voices. Maret has been exceptional in providing and sharing field space at our fields to DPR, Horizons and other local sports clubs. Field space is so hard to find in our city, especially Ward 4, and getting kids outside to exercise and play team sports is vital to their health and well being. I urge you to approve the Maret and ECC partnership and allow these fields to be built. I know Maret and its students will be respectful neighbors and will help serve our community kids and keep the space green.

Thank you for listening and please feel free to reach out to me if you need any additional information.

Thanks,

Sarah

Dear Mr. Hill,

I wanted to write separately to echo my husband, Lanning Moldauer's, comments to support the idea that the Maret School be allowed to use what has for some time been an unused large field that they need for athletics. If you've ever seen the Maret campus, you'll understand why. If one is a nearby resident and objecting, it's the same old NIMBYism that revolves around pure self-interest.

Logical concerns include parking space, which WILL be available on the property. Noise levels are another logical concern, but those (maybe some clapping now and then) not going to disturb those living even quite nearby. We live near a very active elementary school, within a half-block of Lafayette. It's not a problem. It was when it was being renovated over a year a few years back, but in both cases we need to be doing a better job for our kids and that sometimes means short periods of transition and construction.

I've resided in DC for the largest part of my life. This is my home. I, like my husband, am an ex-Maret parent who feels, in this particular instance a need to become involved. I contribute no money to Maret nor am active in any committee there, but this is different, perhaps because my son played four years of varsity lacrosse and football there, a football team co-captain in his senior year. Please allow Maret's use of that land.

Thank you for taking my comments into account.

Comments of Support

Dear Chairman of the BZA, Frederick L. Hill,

I am writing this letter in support of the BZA Application No. 20643: Maret School Athletic Fields Project. I have been a resident of Ward 4 for over 20 years and drive past Utah and Nebraska, Aves at least twice a day. I am in support of the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) and Maret 50-year lease that will allow Maret to use the grounds behind the ECC's buildings, as well as the smallest of its four buildings, to create a multi-sport field and baseball diamond with an adjacent parking lot and a restroom/office/storage facility.

My son, Adam graduated from Maret in 2013 and I have been an active alumni parent since that time. While Adam attended Maret, he played soccer and it was always a challenge to find space for the team to practice and play games. We would go to football games at the Duke Ellington Field which was always a safety hazard when it rained because the grounds and walking areas were wet and muddy. The new athletic field on the grounds of the ECC, would make a world of difference for the athletes, students, and parents.

I am supporting this project because I believe in Maret School, its mission and all that it does for its students and community. Maret's mission focuses on the importance of community and the School has always sought to be a good neighbor and member of the DC community. I served on the Maret Board for 6 years and can attest to this firsthand. I have attended countless meetings during my 20-year relationship with the school when Maret has demonstrated over and over its genuine interest in the community when making decisions that could affect them.

Maret has developed long standing relationships with dozens of organizations in the District, including Horizons Greater Washington. Maret has hosted Horizons' six-week summer enrichment program for students from under-resourced communities in Washington, DC, for over 20 years. Maret offers its field and gyms to outside community groups, providing much-needed recreational space to DC residents.

Maret has always been an inclusive partner with the community. Whenever there is an event, new project, or anything that could potentially bring noise or disruption to the neighborhood, Maret provided regular communication to the residents and responded to their concerns in an open forum. Residents of Woodley Park value Maret as a community partner and neighborhood resource. Maret shows respect for the neighborhood but regularly reminding faculty, parents, and guests of traffic and parking rules in order to lessen the impact or arrival and dismissal on neighbors in Woodley Park.

Since the outset of its comprehensive and collaborative planning effort, the Maret Team (including school staff and hired experts) has initiated and hosted multiple meetings with neighbors – in person and via virtual meetings. The Team has been responsive to neighbors' requests for detailed information and individual meetings. The Maret team has consistently underscored its goal of respecting the surrounding neighborhood and serving as an asset to the community and the District. Maret has thoughtfully considered feedback received from all interested stakeholders and has made many adjustments and concessions to the plan based on this input.

Having Maret as a partner in Ward 4 would add to the community and its surrounding area. I am in total support of the 50-year lease between ECC and Maret School.

Sincerely,

Subject: Comments in Support of BZA Application No. 20643: Maret School Athletic Fields Project

To: bzasubmissions@dc.gov

Dear Chairman Hill and the entire BZA:

Thank you for considering the Maret School Athletic Field Project, BZA Application No. 20643: Maret School Athletic Fields Project. I am writing to offer Comments in Support of this important school, community and DC project.

I fully support the partnership that has developed between Maret and the ECC for the proposed athletic field on the ECC site. It's a great example of the types of partnerships we need more of in this city, and in our country, because it's truly a win-win-win: The ECC needs additional financial support in order to continue its own important mission, and Maret needs additional athletic field space in order to continue its own important missions. So, it's a win-win for those two organizations.

But why a "win-win-win"? The third constituent in this transaction is the city of Washington and its residents and ECC neighbors. The city gets badly needed field space without needing to spend taxpayer dollars, and the neighbors and residents get a local field for their children to play on when it's not being used by Maret. Maret has a long track record of being a generous neighbor, whether it's letting children use its playground on weekends to opening its campus to the Horizons program each summer. In other words, Maret seeks to share its resources with the surrounding communities.

Maret's planned use of the ECC field would be no different, and I would encourage any of you with hesitations to keep an open mind about what life could be like once the fields have been built: fewer car trips to other neighborhoods for soccer, baseball and lacrosse games; more foot traffic in the neighborhood, and hearing the daytime sounds of young people enjoying sports. All of these benefits are on top of major infrastructure improvements that Maret has committed to doing, including, for example, building a modern stormwater management system.

In a perfect world, we wouldn't need more field space, it would just be available to all of us. However, we don't live in that perfect world. We live in Washington DC, a beautiful city where more and more parents wish to remain and raise their children, but a city where large swaths of land are owned by foreign governments and our own federal government, and are off-limits to District residents. Our city wasn't originally designed to have so many young children looking for field space, and we must get creative to meet the growing need. I applaud both ECC and Maret leadership for finding a solution that benefits all of us.

I believe Maret has been very open to accommodating as many of the neighbor's requests as it can; it has revised its original design many times over, and that's a reflection of how thoughtful and conscientious a partner Maret is today and will be once the fields are ready.

I strongly support the development of this property by Maret and the ECC

Thank you very much.

Dear Chairman Hill,

My name is Hope Palmer. My husband, Hugh McDermott and I live at 6100 29th St. We are directly across the street from the Rittenhouse Alley that would border the proposed Maret field project.

We whole- heartedly support Maret's plans. Maret has gone above and beyond to make sure neighbors' concerns are addressed while also staying true to their commitment to both the Maret students and countless other city children who would benefit from the fields. I was born and raised in DC and know first-hand how special and rare it is to have a safe, well maintained, green space for children to play sports.

My husband and I have a 2 year -old son and very much look forward to being able to send him just across the street one day to play for DC Soccer Club or one of the other DC youth athletic programs that Maret would be sharing the space with.

We are also very grateful for what this project would mean for the ECC. These lease payments will support the long -term viability of the ECC and allow it to continue its mission as a therapeutic school serving children with emotional disabilities and their families.

I urge the BZA and ANC members to please consider how many children (Maret students, all of the others who will participate in DC youth sport programs, and the children of the ECC) that would benefit greatly from this project.

I understand there are a few neighbors who live close to the fields who have reservations but I think when weighed against the positive impact this will have on the lives of countless DC children...their concerns don't quite stack up.

Thank you,

Dear Chairman Hill:

I am writing to provide comments in support of the Maret School Athletic Fields Project. As a long-time DC resident, Maret parent, and volunteer coach for DC Soccer Club (formerly Stoddert), I believe that this project will provide substantial benefits not only to Maret students but also to the broader community.

The partnership will benefit both the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC), by providing funding to resume programming for their student population, and allow Maret to meet the needs of its student-athletes. In addition, Maret would like to make the field available to outside youth sports organizations. As someone who has coached rec soccer since about 2000, and attended many other DC sporting events for children, the prospect of adding another high quality, all-weather space for such activities, is something that will meaningfully benefit the City.

Maret has always been focused on being a good member of the community and a good neighbor. This is evidenced in how the school supports non-profit organizations (included Horizons Greater Washington) and its strong relationship with its current Woodley Park neighbors. Maret is in this for the long-run and will continue to work with the ECC neighbors in a professional and civic minded way.

In summary this project will benefit the children of the ECC, Maret, and children across DC.

Thank you

BZA Application No. 20643: Maret School Athletic Fields Project

Dear Chairman of the BZA, Frederick L. Hill,

My name is Christina Giallourakis. I have lived in the Chevy Chase, DC neighborhood (at 3929 Legation Street NW, Washington, DC 20015) for 6 years and have been a resident of WDC for 21 years. Our family home is in ANC 3/4 G, the ANC in which this proposed project is be located. I love the Chevy Chase neighborhood dearly. I am writing you to convey my strong support for the proposed Maret fields at ECC.

I am very happy that due to Maret's partnership, the ECC school will be able to operate again. I also believe that Maret is a wonderful community partner to have in Chevy Chase. What I love most about this project is that the land will support the importance of children spending time outdoors; the importance of this, especially in light of living during this COVID era, is now more understood than ever before.

I have two children (11 years old and 9 years old) that attend Maret. Also, my husband, Aakash Thakkar, volunteers on the Maret Board. He has been very active on supporting this project. We both hope that you approve Maret's BZA application. Please feel free to reach out to me if you have any questions. I can be reached at 202-669-5330 or chgiallourakis@yahoo.com.

Thank you for your consideration. I believe that the broader Chevy Chase community will be the better for allowing this project.

Dear Chairman Hill:

I am writing to provide comments in support of the Maret School Athletic Fields Project. As a longtime DC resident, Maret parent and trustee, and DC Stoddert Soccer parent volunteer, I believe that this project will provide substantial benefits not only to Maret students (58% of whom are DC residents) but also to the broader community.

The partnership between the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) and Maret will enable Maret to meet the needs of its student-athletes and provide ECC with funding to resume programming to meet the needs of its student population. In addition, Maret would like to make the field available to outside youth sports organizations in light of the general lack of athletic field space in the District. Maret's proposed fields are in keeping with the use of the site for educational purposes, and the Maret/ECC partnership ensures that denser, more intensive uses of the property (such as senior living facilities or housing developments) will not be pursued for the duration of the lease.

Maret prides itself on being a good member of the community and a good neighbor. The school has numerous longstanding relationships with dozens of non-profit organizations (included Horizons Greater Washington) and a good relationship with its current Woodley Park neighbors. The school has worked assiduously and transparently to address the concerns of ECC neighbors since announcing its partnership with ECC, and I have no doubt that Maret will continue to work with ECC neighbors to ensure that their concerns are addressed throughout the life of this lease. Simply put, that is just how Maret operates.

The proposed fields will be attractive, environmentally sensitive and thoroughly unobtrusive: landscaping will be plentiful, heritage trees will be preserved, on-site parking (and bike racks) will be provided, stormwater management will be improved, playing fields will be unlit, teams will arrive via buses, amplified sound equipment will be prohibited, etc. The concerns of a handful of neighbors are unfounded -- these fields and the children who will use them will be wonderful additions to the neighborhood.

Thank you so much for your consideration.

Dear Chairman Hill,

I am writing with comments in support of Maret School's Athletic Field Project BZA Application.

My family and I live at 3311 Quesada St NW, Washington, DC 20015, a few block away from the ECC property. I am also a current Maret parent, although my child dances with CityDance Conservatory, so we are not highly involved in Maret's sports programming.

As a board member of Friends of Lafayette Park, I have engaged closely with our neighborhood and ANC on many contentious issues regarding the use of neighborhood parks and facilities, the proposed development or renovations of nearby properties, traffic and safety concerns related to facilities usage, and other challenges neighbors faced with the private developers and contractors involved in prior large-scale development and construction projects in our neighborhood.

In all of the prior development and renovation project debates in our neighborhood, there are some common issues at the heart of the neighbors' concerns: lighting, noise, nighttime use, run off, trees, traffic and parking, community access to the facilities, and consideration for neighbors during and after the project.

Speaking from experience, there are very few private or public development/construction partners who are as considerate and responsive to the local neighbors and community concerns. Through numerous listening sessions, meetings, and open feedback forms, Maret has listened to the neighbors' concerns and made significant changes to their plans to address the neighbors' concerns.

ECC, as a therapeutic school serving children with emotional disabilities and their families, is a valuable institution for the city and greater community. It is clear that, for financial reasons, ECC must lease or sell this open space on their property. As a neighborhood, we are very lucky to have Maret partner with ECC to lease and enhance the field space in keeping with the current use of the site and with consideration for the concerns of the surrounding neighbors.

Below is the list of reasons that I support Maret's in this application to the BZA:

- There will be no athletic lighting and no nighttime use of the fields (with an express prohibition in the ECC/Maret lease)
- No amplified sound systems
- There will be on-site parking for 48 vehicles and a bus loading/unloading zone to keep on-street parking available for local residents
- Maret has stormwater run-off mitigation measures incorporated in the design, a significant improvement over what is currently on the property (Maret designed to a 25-year storm standard, well above the 15-year requirement)
- Maret is collaborating with DC Urban Forestry to retain and maintain healthy trees and oversee the transplant of 4 Heritage trees
- A large separate corner of the property will be maintained as a natural park-like setting for use by the neighbors
- Maret's design includes plentiful and attractive landscaping will be installed surrounding the site to buffer views of neighbors, which will be maintained by Maret
- Maret is using a new, environmentally conscious turf – this is a different product than the traditional artificial turf of the past (e.g., eliminating crumb rubber fill and using wood-based infill, increased water conservation, eliminating contamination from fertilizers and pesticides needed to maintain grass field surfaces, reduction of pollution-producing maintenance equipment, etc.).
- The community will have access to the fields, and Maret will work with the community to determine the hours during which the fields will be available for general community use

- In response to neighbor concerns, Maret reduced the hours of proposed field usage by DC youth sports organizations
- Maret comprehensively reviewed transportation impacts associated with the project and proposed effective mitigation strategies, including infrastructure improvements; an updated Transportation Management Plan; additional on-site bike racks; and, along with ECC, the commitment to remove one existing curb cut on Nebraska Avenue adjacent to the proposed parking lot curb cut, which has been reduced to 24 feet in width.

In response to community concerns, Maret made several changes and adjustments to field elements, including: modified the location and heights of retaining walls; relocated the scoreboard away from the field perimeter and to a lower elevation; sited batting cages and bullpens to minimize impact on neighboring properties; relocated trash receptacles and confirmed that trash collection will not occur from the alleys adjacent to the field; shifted the rain garden toward the interior of site; proposed site fencing to ensure adequate security while allowing for neighborhood use of the fields at established times; and enhanced landscaping buffers to effectively screen the athletic fields from nearby residences.

The ECC site is located at the intersection of two larger capacity roads, “collectors” or “major collectors”, which is well suited for access to an athletic and educational use site and can accommodate the modest use proposed by Maret. Maret is a conscientious and diligent neighbor at their Woodley Park campus, and they will be equally as conscientious and diligent with the neighbors at the ECC field property.

The Maret fields will be a valuable asset for the ECC, the neighborhood, and the greater community, and Maret, with their thoughtful and community-oriented approach to the field design and use, will make an excellent partner.

Thank you for your time and consideration. Please feel free to contact me at (917) 572-0151 or email tcbulla@aol.com.

ianocam61@gmail.com

Dear Chairman Hill,

As President of the Maret Board of Trustees and a resident of the District of Columbia, I write in support of Maret’s BZA Application No 20643. Maret’s partnership with the Episcopal Center for Children to build athletic fields would meet Maret’s long-term need for its athletic program. I would like, however, to address the overall need for additional recreation space in the District of Columbia, particularly in Northwest DC and in Ward 4. The fact is, there remains a lack of regulation-sized fields in Northwest DC and the ECC field is one of the last opportunities to fill that void. Therefore, I recommend the BZA approve the field and allow non-Maret use of the field under the reasonable schedules per the Maret application.

If approved by the BZA, the new field will serve as a public benefit for DC residents. In 2020, the Department of Parks and Recreation conducted Ready2Play, a citywide survey on use of parks and recreation facilities. The survey* reported results by ward. According to the survey, the most visited parks in Ward 4 were Takoma Park Rec Center, Upshur Park, Petworth Park, and Hamilton Park. All offer multipurpose fields and are east of Rock Creek Park. Ward 4 needs more recreation offerings west of the park. Since DPR faces budget and space constraints, school field facilities can provide a useful public recreational benefit.

Among Ward 4 residents, the survey found that 70% of residents used national parks, 62% used DPR facilities, 42% used schools, 40% used facilities outside of DC, 39% used private in home facilities, 31% used private gyms, 11% community institutions, organizations.

Therefore, school facilities are an important source for park and recreation activity use in Ward 4. The Ready to Play Survey of Ward 4 residents identified barriers to accessing DPR facilities. Barriers included lack of access, quality, safety, and programs filling up too quickly. While 37% of Ward 4 residents reported programs filling up too quickly as the biggest barrier to using DPR facilities, 27% said lack of desired amenities was the biggest barrier. Therefore, lack of amenities is a major reason why Ward 4 residents can't use recreational facilities.

This is significant: Q19 asked: "Are there any vacant lots/underutilized land that you would like to see re-purposed for recreational use in your ward. This required respondents to volunteer a location and suggest a use. The most often cited location was the ECC land which is the subject of this zoning application. Here are some of the comments that respondents volunteered:

"this would be an ideal location for additional recreational facilities"

"Look to accessing Episcopal Center for Children in Ward 4 to use as a soccer field."

"Would be great recreation area and place for programming."

"ECC should be purchased and used for recreation as well as additional educational overflow."

"ECC" (no description of general improvements).

"ECC" (no description of general improvements).

The land at ECC was the ONLY location in an area bounded by Western Avenue, Connecticut Avenue, and Oregon Avenue that was identified by respondents as a location to repurpose for recreational use. In fact, besides Fort Reno, it was the only space suggested as a location for significant upgraded recreational facilities.

It's clear that the Maret BZA application is a unique opportunity to provide DC residents, specifically our younger residents, much needed space for recreational purposes. This project will benefit residents not only in close proximity to the fields but those living in Ward 3 and Ward 4. I encourage the BZA to approve Application 20643.

Sincerely,

Ian Cameron

ATTN: Frederick L. Hill, Chairman of the DC Board of Zoning Adjustment

Dear Chairman Hill:

As a 20-year resident of the Chevy Chase DC neighborhood, I am writing to submit Comments in Support of BZA Application No. 20643 for the Maret School Fields Project at the Episcopal Center for Children. My contact information is included at the end of this email.

I have been a Maret parent nearly as long as I have been a Chevy Chase DC resident. Maret has consistently impressed me as an honorable, transparent, and engaged community partner. Through Maret's service learning programs, my sons volunteered with a variety of community-serving non-profits through longterm partnerships with a variety of organizations from Martha's Table to Mazique Early Childhood Center to Bread for the City. I have served for several years as the co-chair of the council supporting Maret's Horizons Greater Washington program, an impactful academic and enrichment "summer school" that Maret brought to the DC area and that serves hundreds of DCPS students each year from grades 1 to 9, yielding impressive academic gains and teaching every child to swim and ride a bike (www.horizonsgreaterwashington.org).

I also chaired Maret's scholarship fundraiser during the pandemic last year, through which this generous community raised $843,000 to help provide a Maret education to students whose families are unable to afford the tuition; Maret provides financial assistance to 25% of its families, as high a percentage as any school in this area. I could go on, but in short, Maret is an institution that serves students — and shares its resources to improve conditions — throughout the District.

In keeping with this community-oriented track record, I support Maret's School Fields Project because it will yield benefits for the broader DC community in two main ways:

1. The Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) has been shuttered due to financial difficulties, leaving it unable to fulfill its mission as a therapeutic school serving children with emotional disabilities. Institutions like the ECC are few and far between, leaving families in severe need. The ECC has wisely determined that it must leverage its real estate in order to resume operations to avoid closure. The ECC chose Maret as its partner in order to obtain the financial resources it needs via a longterm lease while only allowing a use that is consistent with its educational mission. Of course, the ECC has a variety of other options to achieve its financial goals that would have been less palatable to the surrounding community. As a neighborhood resident, I support this application because it enables the ECC to restart its program and fulfill its core mission of providing educational opportunities for families in need.

2. There is a dearth of sports fields throughout the District and particularly in my neighborhood. My sports-playing son is in college now, but for years we drove great distances to fields far outside our neighborhood — and often well outside the District, which is of course bad for the environment, and where on many a weekend day we also spent our dollars on food and drink that could have been spent at District establishments. Since Maret will only use the proposed sports field during set hours, DC's youth sports organizations will have access to the fields (at reasonable hours and without noise amplification). This is a clear win for DC's young athletes and families who will benefit from having another local field to use, including my neighbors who will have the opportunity to walk their children to a practice or game.

Maret and the ECC have been transparent in their planning process, inviting and responding to extensive community input with respect to transportation, site design, and hours of use. I have confidence that Maret will continue to be responsive to neighborhood concerns once the field is up and running — just as it has been where the school is located in Woodley Park (where neighbor concerns about traffic and parking are taken very seriously, parents are admonished to follow the rules, and adjustments have been made over time as needed). For the record, my younger son will graduate before the field is completed (and he does not play team sports at Maret), so although I am a Maret parent currently, my support is based on my belief as a neighborhood resident that the community will benefit, rather than any personal benefit my family would receive.

In conclusion, approval of BZA Application No. 20643 will provide clear community benefits without any significant detriments to its neighbors. Any characterization of this proposal as one that benefits only a small number of well-off students is a misunderstanding of who comprises Maret students, how the field will benefit young athletes from throughout the District, and, perhaps most importantly, the property owner's mission-based decision to find a complementary use of its field space that will enable it to once again serve students with emotional disabilities.

As a neighborhood resident, I would look with pride on the ECC location filling two needs (educating children with special needs and providing field space) that are often NIMBY-ed out of other neighborhoods. As you may know, Chevy Chase DC is engaged in a "Small Area Planning Process," and our ANC recently issued a report on racial equity — in both efforts, we are searching for ways to chart a future for our neighborhood that is more inclusive than its past. Our neighborhood, which is predominantly single-family homes, should open its arms to — and not exclude — community-serving uses such as those proposed in this application before the BZA.

Thank you very much for considering my input.

John Higgins, ANC 3G02, Randy Speck, Chair ANC 3/4G, Members of ANC 3/4G

Dear Commissioner Higgins, Chair Speck, and distinguished members of the ANC 3/4G.

We write today to urge you to strongly support the proposed partnership between The Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) and Maret School. This partnership will help serve children from across this city by providing vital educational and recreational opportunities, will help preserve important green space in our ANC district, will allow a community institution, The ECC, to open its doors to students once again, and will make our community stronger, more inclusive and more family-friendly.

For the past twenty-two years, our family has lived at 6200 Utah Ave, just down the street from the proposed new field site. When the ECC shut its doors to students, it was a loss for both the larger community and our neighborhood. This new partnership will save the ECC, allowing students in need from across the region to receive services and counseling again on campus and preserving the beautiful green space that so many of us have enjoyed throughout the years.

This partnership will also create another precious commodity for our city, more fields for youth sports. Our four children, who range from elementary to college age have played field sports since they were toddlers. One thing extremely clear is the lack of fields across DC, let alone our own neighborhood.

Supporting the Maret/ECC partnership will help alleviate this problem and keep the ever dwindling green space in our city. We hope that the ANC will advocate and encourage more usage of the proposed football/baseball/soccer field for local schools and youth sports groups. There are many families like ours who live close to the ECC who support this partnership. We know loud voices sometimes drown out the voices of others. There have been assertions about traffic, about Maret and the ECC's plans, and claims about potential field usage that simply do not equate with the facts. This proposal is not creating another Carter Baron or a super sports complex where scores of people will be flooding the neighborhood. It is creating a new youth sports field for a city that desperately needs more green spaces and helping our neighborhood preserve a beautiful open space. After carefully reviewing Maret's plans and taking part in their community input sessions, we think that they have listened to the concerns of the neighborhood and have presented a balanced plan that will meet everyone's concerns.

Lastly, we are so glad the ECC decided to team up with Maret and keep the property centered and focused on education and recreation for children. It is the best outcome we could have hoped for and we need your help to ensure this partnership is approved, supported, and endorsed by the City.

Please know that as property owners close to ECC, we support the ECC/Maret partnership. It will strengthen our community, help our property values and make our neighborhood healthier, stronger, and more diverse for years to come.

Please feel free to contact us at any time if you have any questions about why we support the partnership and thank you for your consideration. We very much appreciate your dedicated efforts and leadership on behalf of the residents of this ANC District.

Sincerely,

Katie and Patrick Kennelly

Randy/John:

Apologies for the late arriving note, but I wanted to voice my support for Maret at ECC. My family has been in Ward 3 for nearly 30 years, and appreciate the hard work of the ANC. I miss Chris as a strong advocate for us, but also know you both work hard on behalf of all Ward 3 residents. And by all, I mean all - not just the noisy few.

I am also a former Maret parent. Both my boys went through High School at Maret, the youngest graduating this past year. Neither were big sports kids, but they played. Maret is a very small school that really really encourages participation in sports for what it teaches. It is part of the fabric of Maret that you at least try to play some sports and you do so within the confines of the limited playing space we have. It is part of being an urban school. We live in a city.

I just want to make a few key points:

When Maret says they will be a good neighbor, they mean it. From traffic flow, to parking, to use of facilities, the school leadership constantly reinforces the rules and demands parents abide by them. I have seen the Maret baseball team tossed off their own field at Jeleff because their time was up.

There is a massive dearth of playing fields in Ward 3. Every bit will help. As a Ward 3 parent I logged significant miles taking my kids elsewhere to play.

Let's not forget about ECC. Those in opposition seem to be forgetting the vital role ECC has played in the community.

What is the Plan B here? Leaving aside the nonsense that some folks believe that proximity gives them authority, it appears all they are focused on is "not Maret", not realizing that something will happen to that site. So this will continue...unless of course DC chooses to put housing there in which case they will have no vote at all.

Bottom line, Maret has bent over backwards to try to address the neighborhood concerns, ECC needs help, Ward 3 needs more fields.

Thank you for listening.

From: Christie Phillips

To: Advisory Neighborhood Commission

Dear Commissioners,

I am writing to support the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC), a nonprofit educational institution, and our partnership with the Maret School. I have worked with The Episcopal Center for Children in the past as a consultant and currently am on the faculty at Marymount University in Arlington, VA. During that time, it was clear that the staff and workers at ECC were totally committed to the students and would do whatever they could to support those students and work with their families to ensure the students success.

EEC provided a unique supportive, therapeutic program for children with special education and emotional needs for more than 125 years. In operation since the 1950's, EEC has educated and supported thousands of students and their families with dedicated and exceptional teachers and staff. When EEC stopped its education and therapeutic program in June 2019 due to financial constraints, many students and their families were forced to find alternative educational options.

This past year, a partnership with the Maret School was created that would build an athletic field on land that ECC owns behind its buildings, and to lease our smallest building. The field will be in use after school hours, and on the weekends.

This past year, a partnership with the Maret School was created that would build an athletic field on land that ECC owns behind its buildings, and to lease our smallest building. The field will be in use after school hours, and on the weekends some. There will be no lighting for night games and no public address system. The majority of the time - two-thirds of the daylight hours - the field will be unoccupied. EEC students will also be able to use the athletic fields during the school day. With a 50-year lease with another school, this partnership provides a funding stream to assist ECC and is with a like-minded entity, a school for children.

The partnership with the Maret School inspired EEC to plan to reopen in the fall of 2022. is an exciting opportunity for students from the District and neighboring jurisdictions to find special education, therapeutic services, and behavior support. Currently, many students requiring these services are riding the bus for two hours each way to find programs in Maryland and Virginia because only one comparable program still exists in the District.

ECC has served a student population that is often forgotten, voiceless and without resources. In fact, in past years, 91% of the student body qualified for free lunch under the Federal government guidelines. The majority of the students who had attended ECC were from Washington, D.C., specifically wards 6,7, and 8. Eighty-four percent of the students came from D.C public schools and public charter schools. The remaining sixteen percent traveled from nearby Virginia and Maryland school districts.

The partnership between ECC and Maret School meets many educational and community needs for residents of the District:

- ECC is a DC passed nonprofit school program serving students with individual education plans that cannot be met by their local neighborhood school
- There is only one other therapeutic program in the entire D.C jurisdiction serving students with an emotional disability.
- ECC students experienced emotional disturbances, ADD/ADH, mood disorders, oppositional defiance, speech-language impairments, and learning disabilities. In addition to intensive therapy and supporting educational services, students received individual psychological and psychiatric service.
- All ECC students had individualized education programs (EPs) focused on the whole child. Each student could work through past trauma, learn coping skills and, ultimately, return to the public school setting if possible
- All students at ECC had an individualized education program (EP).
- ECC provides comprehensive Special Education and therapeutic services in one nonprofit facility, while also helping families support their child's education and development. Each parent received a phone call every day to review the progress of the day and provide suggestions on how to support the child at home that evening.

The proposed partnership with Maret School will allow ECC to continue its long-standing mission to serve children coping with special needs and their families. A partnership with Maret joins two school institutions serving children in the community. The 50 year lease agreement allows ECC to leverage the property resources that it has to reopen its program for children while also preserving the open space and committing the space to children and education. Additionally, the athletic fields would also be open for use by the neighborhood during designated times. As a consideration to the neighborhood, no night lights and no public address system will be installed. Usage will be limited to after school hours and weekend daylight hours. Field construction will also address water drainage issues. Netting and landscaping will minimize impact on the surrounding community.

Were ECC to sell the land, it would possibly be for single family or townhouse development. It is not realistic for the land to remain undeveloped or vacant.

This is a partnership that uses available resources to meet the varying needs of multiple school and community resources. It presents a win-win solution to meeting the needs of children within Washington, D.C., particularly some of those most at risk for being marginalized and forgotten.

Sincerely,

Dear ANC 3/4G Chairman Speck

I am a Co-Block Captain of the 5300 Block of 29th Street NW with a strong interest in sound planning decision that serve the interests of our broader community. I understand that the ANC is scheduled to address Maret School's proposal to use the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) fields during the ANC 3/4G meeting on Monday Jan 10th. In advance of that session, I wanted to convey my support for Maret's proposal. In my view, it provides the best of the available options for the use of the EEC fields, making it possible for the EEC to resume its much needed special education services to children and families, and put the stewardship of the fields in the hands of Maret, which has a excellent reputation and a record of demonstrating respect for its stakeholders.

For over 125 year the ECC provided special educational services for needy children and families in the District, but it had to suspend its operations a few years ago due to financial constraints. Immediately following its closure, the ECC was approached by numerous real estate brokers and developers representing housing developments, senior living facilities and other entities, both local and international, to purchase the property. Additionally, the ECC explored leasing its facility to DCPS, but that turned out not to be a viable option. After several months of review and community discussion, Maret School offered its proposal, which provides for valuable field use for its students and District children, allows the EEC to resume its crucial operations, and also includes a thoughtful plan for effectively addressing community concerns about noise, light and the environment.

For these reasons, I support Maret's proposal, and respectfully urge you and the ANC 3/4G Commissions to advocate for the approval of the project.

Thank you for your consideration, and best wishes for the New Year,

Best regards,

Commissioner Randy Speck ANC 3G03

Dear Commissioner:

I write in support of the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) in their effort to remain viable and relevant in our community. Although I have lived in the neighborhood for over 40 years, I understand this project will not directly affect my house or surroundings. Having lived through Ingleside's multiple years of renovations directly across the street, however, I am not without sympathy for those in the immediate surroundings of those changes that are to take place in the agreement with Maret School. Where once stood hundreds of trees now stands a multiple-storied building with rows of lighted windows that shine in my own every night.

When the ECC ceased operations as a therapeutic school for children with emotional challenges in June 2019, I had been an employee there for 50 years. Hired in 1969 as a child care worker, I then worked there as a social worker until 2019. I, too, have wrestled with concerns about how to keep the ECC relevant in the community, and have had mixed feelings about the use of the property. In particular, I mourn the loss of the trees, the expansive lower field, and the pool. I realize, however, that this alternative may be the best option for keeping the ECC open and offering these specialized services to Washington, DC and surrounding areas.

I have enjoyed a long, wonderful relationship with the ECC, from the founder, Elsa Miller, to long-time Executive Director Alan Korz, to its current CEO Stefanie Nash, who I have known personally and professionally for many years. I can say, without reservation, that Ms Nash will carry on the mission envisioned by Ms Miller, and the rich legacy of service, treatment and advocacy for emotionally troubled children left by Mr Korz. I am very aware of efforts made by all of them to maintain a positive relationship with neighbors, surrounding schools, and within the community. Ms Nash will carry on the legacy of the ECC by continuing to be a thoughtful, good neighbor and an advocate for the community.

I understand there will be much to navigate for this plan to work to the benefit of most involved. This alternative appears be the best to allow options for neighbors to access the facility and for the ECC to continue its long, rich history of serving the needs of children and their families. Although the neighborhood will continue to have to deal with many issues, I am confident that Ms Nash will strive to best continue to create connections with children and families.

I strongly support this partnership in an effort to keep the ECC open to once again serve the ever-increasing educational needs of our children with emotional and academic challenges. I look forward to the continuing discussions in your effort to come to an equitable solution.

This letter was not solicited by the ECC or Maret.

Dear ANC 3/4G Chairman Speck and Commissioner Higgins,

My name is Lionel Brown and I am Co-Block Captain of the 5300 Block of 29th Street NW. My wife, Rhoda Weeks-Brown, and I are also parents of two Maret high schoolers, who are unlikely to directly benefit from the proposed fields when completed.

We are submitting this statement of support of Maret's proposed fields on the ECC grounds given the school's well thought out plan that provides responsible use for not only its students and District children, but also empathetically addresses neighbors understandable concerns about noise, lighting and the environment. Throughout Maret's 110 years history in the District, the School has made being a great neighbor part of its ethos. Moreover, Maret has demonstrated strong commitment to the wider District community by generously opening its doors to needed students and allowing use of its facilities by a myriad of organizations for educational, sports and community purposes.

We believe Maret's long and storied roots in the District, stellar reputation for integrity and the ECC's desire to reopen its critical operations to special needs students make this partnership the best and most viable option for use of the space. The proposal is undoubtedly in the long term interest of our community and we have no doubt that Maret will keep its commitments. Therefore, we unreservedly support Maret's proposal. Moreover, we respectfully urge you and the ANC 3/4G commissioners to advocate for approval of the project.

Thank you for for your consideration.

Sincerely,

I am writing to log my strong support of the potential Maret lease of ECC at 5901 Utah Avenue. The Episcopal Center for Children has a long and rich history serving children in our area and the potential partnership with Maret would be a win-win-win.

As I understand it, this relationship would (1) help the ECC get back to its important work serving kids (2) preserve a beautiful open space for the city and neighborhood and (3) create a multi outdoor field space that would benefit Maret but also the larger community.

We have 3 children and live at 33rd and Oliver St. NW. I strongly support the project and encourage you to give it your full consideration.

Many thanks.

To: Speck, Randy (SMD 3G03); Higgins, John (SMD 3G02)

Dear ANC Commissioners Speck and Higgins:

I write to you today as both a DC resident as well as the Executive Director of Horizons Greater Washington in support of the proposed partnership between Maret and the ECC to ensure greater field and recreation space for our community. For context, Horizons is a primarily summer academic enrichment program for 400 K-8 students in the DC area. We have hosted a site at Maret since 2000. At Horizons, we work to not only stop the summer slide for underserved students in DC, but to accelerate academic achievement during the critical summer months. On average, Horizons students gain 1-3 months in math and reading skills at the conclusion of each summer with Horizons. We are proud to serve primarily students who attend Title I public and charter schools.

None of our incredible results or 20+ years of programming would be possible without Maret's commitment to Horizons. This commitment to community and Horizons' mission starts at the top with Head of School Marjo Talbott. It was Marjo's commitment to our mission and building a better, more equitable DC that brought Horizons to the DC area over 20 years ago. Since that time, Marjo has served as a steady presence on our Horizons Board of Directors and helped the program expand from serving 15 students at Maret in 2000 to serving over 400 students at three schools in Summer 2022. It is Marjo's vision, commitment, and advocacy with her fellow school leaders that has made our expansion of programming possible.

I can personally attest to the way that Maret wholeheartedly opens their doors to serve our Horizons students. At no cost, Maret provides program space, busing, staff resources, materials, supplies, and yes, field space to Horizons to ensure that our Horizons students can have a transformative and life changing experience every year for nine years. As part of the partnership, Maret gives Horizons students full access to their campus and resources, including critical outdoor space. I have seen firsthand how squeezed the school is to manage their limited field space (including lack of access to full sized fields). A partnership with the ECC will give Maret (and Horizons' students) access to field space that is not already available.

As a community partner, I have seen the entire Maret community live out their mission and values— particularly in supporting their students' success and connecting to their communities. In my role, I can attest that Maret is a conscientious, welcoming, willing partner always mindful of their responsibility to serve the greater good. I am grateful for Maret's partnership with Horizons and am fully confident that the proposed partnership with the ECC will benefit the larger community.

Sincerely,

To Whom it May Concern:

As owners and residents of the home at 6214 29th Street, NW, we write in strong support of the proposed partnership between the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) and Maret School. As neighbors who live very close to ECC, the proposal is ideal to meet the needs of our local community and the families who live here.

Access to open space and exercise are critical for child development and mental and physical health. As a family with a young child, we have tried to use the ECC fields during the pandemic to give our son access to a nearby open field but were prevented by a policeman from throwing a frisbee on the vacant, unoccupied field. The proposed ECC-Maret partnership would allow us as local residents to use a much-improved and closeby open space and would be a major benefit to our family's physical and mental health during a challenging time. At the same time, it would not increase residential density or cause significant disruptions or quality of life concerns in this quiet residential neighborhood.

As a 7th grade student at Maret, our son currently has limited access to space on school fields where he can exercise and participate in outdoor team sports. He and many other District children would benefit greatly if this partnership goes forward to allow Maret students, community members, and a limited number of youth sports organizations to play sports on quality playing fields that are currently scarce in this area. In these challenging times in particular, physically distanced outdoor play time is a critical local resource for our neighborhood's kids and families.

The proposal as described is both very reasonable and in the best interests of this neighborhood as well as the ECC and Maret communities. Please contact us at Peter_Zamora@hotmail.com and MarcelaGUrrutia@hotmail.com if we can provide additional information regarding our strong support for this proposal.

Sincerely,

Peter and Marcela Zamora

Dear Commissioner Higgins:

As a resident of Ward Four and ANC 3/4G-02, I urge you to approve Maret School's leasing of the Episcopal Children Center's unused field. Why? This matter boils down to this:

Does the ECC/Maret proposal have enough value for the DC community as a whole, now and in the future, to outweigh the current apprehensions of the households now living nearby on Nebraska Avenue or adjoining the field?

Please consider:

- Regarding the noise and traffic after 3 pm in midweek afternoons and on Saturdays, those neighbors over time will regard the redone ECC field as no more bothersome than the people who live around Lafayette School feel about the baseball diamond, playgrounds, and tennis courts there.
- The unused field would have no better use than allowing the ECC to restart and thus serve generations of diverse DC children with emotional challenges and their families, as well as Maret student athletes and authorized youth groups.
- If this plan is rejected, however, that area will: remain unused, forcing the ECC to stay closed, or face unknown, possibly uncontrollable, changes in the near future that cause months of noise and disruption from construction of houses or an institution.

On balance, I believe the overall benefits to the ECC, Maret, and diverse DC youth groups – now and into the future -- overcome the current neighbors' concerns.

As the parent of two Maret graduates (and our daughter is current chair of the alumni board), I know Maret has already accommodated several neighbors' requests, and I am sure it will be open to other reasonable concerns they may raise.

Thanks for your attention,

Dear Commissioners,

I am writing to express my full support for the planned development of the empty 5 acres owned by the Episcopal Center for Children and leased to Maret School for use as their athletic fields. A few members of the neighborhood have been very vocal in their opposition and a recent article in the Washington Post focused on their concerns. But ECC's voice and the children it serves have had very little attention in this discussion. As a member of the Board of Directors for ECC for over 30 years, I would like to explain why we feel it necessary to develop a portion of our property so we can continue to serve our mission assisting children coping with special needs.

For over 100 years ECC's mission has been to create an educational and therapeutic environment for young children with severe emotional disabilities. These are children who, for a variety of reasons, require special education services that are simply not available in their neighborhood public schools.

There is a tremendous need for this treatment and it is urgently needed due to the permanent closures of several similar independent, nonpublic schools in the District, due to financial hardship. Unlike most traditional independent schools, we are unable to set our tuition fees to cover our expenses. We must accept what the city's budget allows, which never fully covers the expenses. We provide almost a 1:1 ratio of students to staff while offering comprehensive and accredited academic instruction and therapeutic services for children with very complex needs.

ECC has survived over the years by subsidizing our annual budget with funds from donations and our endowment fund, which was created by generous donors over many years. However, in the spring of 2019 the Board made the difficult decision to pause operations until we could figure out a way to make the institution's finances self-sustaining, because we were quickly running out of money.

When word got out that we had paused operations we were approached with many offers to buy or lease our property. Some of these development plans called for high density townhouses, expensive individual residences, and 4 story buildings for independent senior living quarters. We even had an inquiry from a developer headquartered in London, England. All of these plans would have been far more disruptive to the neighborhood than a sports field.

When the Maret School approached us with a plan to convert our unutilized acreage to playing fields our Board thought this was an excellent solution for all parties. ECC would have a reliable stream of income to support our operations and allow us to reopen, and the Maret School would have badly needed playing fields for their students. The land would remain open space available to the neighborhood, subject to Maret School's guidelines and also available to the students attending the ECC.

We understand many of the neighbors' concerns about the details of the plan, such as location of the scoreboard, bus parking on Nebraska Ave, noise levels, weekend usage and water run-off, but we feel that the Maret School has been sensitive to these issues and has worked in good faith to mitigate problems wherever possible. ECC also wrote into the lease provisions that prohibit the installation of lights on the playing fields so that no events can take place after sundown.

Our commitment remains to the children we serve and their families. Upon hearing of the ECC-Maret partnership, a parent of a former ECC student wrote to us, "Thank God!" That is the relief these families feel knowing that our school could reopen, thanks to this partnership. Our former staff are excited too - as many are commuting long hours outside the District to jobs in other programs.

It would be irresponsible for us to not use every resource we have, to reopen to serve these children. Many of the pupils who might attend our school, are currently being bused outside the District to programs in Maryland and Virginia – which poses a burden on their families and impacts their treatment. These children need a special education program that can meet their needs in the District, one that is accredited and can meet their needs with care and support.

Two things are certain. ECC will not be deterred from our long-standing mission of helping special needs children. Change will come to our open land in one form or another. We cannot afford to have it remain as is.

I sincerely hope you and your fellow Commissioners will approve the ECC-Maret plan on January 10 for the greater good of all concerned.

Most Sincerely,

William P. Simons III

Dear Officers and commissioners of ANC3G and fellow residents of the District of Columbia,

Please allow me to add my voice to the many who feel we must allow an invaluable, but not now functioning, community resource to be revitalized. I refer to the Episcopal Center for Children which has been lying fallow since lack of funding forced it to close in 2019. Until the 2019 closure, ECC was providing special education, therapeutic services, and behavioral support for children of the Washington metropolitan area. The services provided were broader and more comprehensive than any available in the public school system or city-wide social network.

ECC possibly could have resolved its financial issues by selling unused land it now owns to private interests for real estate development. I understand that is still a last resort alternative. Instead, ECC saw a better solution in leasing the land to Maret School for use as its school athletic field. The land would then be available for ECC children recreational use as well as for members of the community at large. ECC would then be provided with the funding necessary to function once again.

My family has been neighbors of ECC since we became property owners in Barnaby Woods in the 1960's and we have always thought of the functioning ECC as a valuable neighbor and city-wide resource. We are aware that the nearby St. John's College High School and its athletic fields has coexisted peacefully with its neighbors for many decades. Members of the ECC board and administrative staff give every assurance they will always keep the needs and peaceful lives of the surrounding residents of the athletic fields in mind.

Please move to allow this reopening to take place.

Sincerely,

Robert A. Watson

Dear Commissioners Speck and Higgins:

We are writing in support of the proposed lease of land by the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) to the Maret School. We know that you will be giving thoughtful consideration to the proposed partnership and wanted to share our perspective as long-time members of the community. The agreement would drive two positive outcomes – ECC would be able to reopen, after being forced to shut down for financial reasons, and Maret would have fields that it could use for its diverse students to be active outdoors as well as for the broader community. Pretty good for a lease of five acres.

Through its lease of the Jelleff Recreation Center, Maret has proven itself as a responsible, inclusive, and thoughtful community partner, providing opportunities for young people throughout the city to use those facilities. Maret has acted as an intentional steward for both their own students and more broadly for other young people. Building on its track record, we are confident that Maret would seek out opportunities to provide the ECC fields to other youth organizations consistent with the concerns and needs of the neighboring community. In this case, Maret is simply trying to provide fields, so its high school students have a place to play soccer, lacrosse, football and baseball. Nearby schools Wilson and St. John's, for example, have such fields. Maret does not. The effects on neighbors of converting the current space to a playing field seem limited and could bring more vitality and new possibility to the neighborhood. The laughter, cheers and sounds of play offer opportunities to bring new energy.

On the more practical side, Maret does not plan to install either lights or an amplified sound system. So, games and practices will not occur at night nor cause major traffic issues or inconvenience to the neighborhood. While there may be some cheers here and there, the reality is that most high school sports games do not draw huge crowds. And who knows, it is possible that young people playing sports there would infuse the neighborhood with some fresh intergenerational energy and opportunities for connections. We hope the neighbors, ECC and Maret can embrace an open mind and find an outcome that is satisfactory to all. The potential benefits seem substantial. Thank you for your consideration of our views and your service to the community.

Ms. Connie K.N. Chang 5440 Nevada Ave., NW Washington, DC 20015

Dear Commissioner Chang,

I write as a neighbor and ANC constituent to convey my enthusiastic support for the proposed plans to locate a sport field on the site of the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC). I have had three children attend the Maret school for high school (they attended Lafayette and Deal for Elementary and Middle School), but the youngest will be graduated by the time the field is completed, so we will not, as a Maret family, benefit directly from the project. Thus, while I appreciate the benefits to Maret, my support of the project stems primarily from the value I see it bringing to ECC and the neighborhood.

I have reviewed the plans and disclosures about them, and I consider them wellconceived, balancing carefully the needs of the users of the sport field with those of the neighborhood, while substantially mitigating potential externalities. Familiar as I am with the thoughtfulness and professionalism of the Maret administration, I am confident that the school will be exceptional stewards of this property and great neighbors to all of us. We can see that already, in the way that Maret has painstakingly responded to neighborhood concerns and taken steps to modify plans to address them. When compared to any other use of the property, this plan promises the greatest benefit to our community, developing the property in a way that is consistent with and reinforces the family-oriented nature of our neighborhood. The availability of an additional sport field will be a great boon to families in the area. Like most of our neighbors, I have spent a good portion of the past two decades driving my children to the far reaches of DC in order for them to play in school and intramural sports leagues. As you know, sporting fields are virtually non-existent at Lafayette and woefully inadequate at Deal, as they are in many other parts of the city.

I applaud Maret for its commitment to sharing the proposed field with the public to meet this need. How wonderful for future families in our neighborhood to have within walking or biking distance another field where their children's games might be played. I am reassured by the commitments that this use will be kept in reasonable bounds (and without lights or loud speakers) so as not to be inappropriately disruptive to the neighborhood. I am also very appreciative of the fact that the proposed plan will enable the ECC to reopen its doors and continue the valuable programming it provides to special needs kids. For all of the foregoing reasons, I am a strong supporter of the proposed plan and urge you and your colleagues to support it. I will be attending the upcoming ANC meeting at which the plan will be discussed and hope to hear that the way is clear for the plan to proceed.

Thank you for considering my views and please do not hesitate to contact me should you have any questions.

With best regards, Elizabeth Andersen

John Higgins, ANC 3G02 Randy Speck, Chair ANC 3/4G Members of ANC 3/4G

Dear Commissioner Higgins, Chair Speck, and distinguished members of the ANC 3/4G, We write today to urge you to strongly support the proposed partnership between The Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) and Maret School. This partnership will help serve children from across this city by providing vital educational and recreational opportunities, will help preserve important green space in our ANC district, will allow a community institution, The ECC, to open its doors to students once again, and will make our community stronger, more inclusive and more family-friendly. For the past twenty-one years, our family has lived at 5841 Nebraska Ave, directly across from the proposed new field site.

We have loved listening to the students who attended the ECC play outside on the fields, enjoyed meeting the faculty and staff as they parked their cars along Nebraska Ave, and have proudly worked to create opportunities for the neighborhood to support the students and the mission of the ECC over the past ten years, whether it was working to bring the Lafayette Spring Fair to the grounds of the ECC or organizing book and coat drives for ECC students. When the ECC shut its doors to students, it was a loss for both the larger community and our neighborhood. This new partnership will save the ECC, allowing students in need from across the region to receive services and counseling again on campus and preserving the beautiful green space that so many of us have enjoyed throughout the years.

This partnership will also create another precious commodity for our city, more fields for youth sports. Our son Jack, who attended Lafayette, Deal and is now a sophomore at Maret, played soccer, baseball, tag football and frisbee when he was younger, and we witnessed firsthand the appalling lack of field space for kids across DC in almost every Ward. As a sophomore, Jack will probably not get to use this new ECC field very much as a Maret student, but we are excited that the younger children of this city from every school will now have more options when it comes to playing sports. We hope that the ANC will advocate and encourage more usage of the proposed football/baseball/soccer field for local schools and youth sports groups. We also want to make sure that you all know that there are many families like ours who live close to the ECC who support this partnership. We know loud voices sometimes drown out the voices of others. There have been assertions about traffic, about Maret and the ECC's plans, and claims about potential field usage that simply do not equate with the facts. This proposal is not creating another Carter Baron or a super sports complex where scores of people will be flooding the neighborhood. It is creating a new youth sports field for a city that desperately needs more green spaces and helping our neighborhood preserve a beautiful open space. After carefully reviewing Maret's plans and taking part in their community input sessions, we think that they have listened to the concerns of the neighborhood and have presented a balanced plan that will meet everyone's concerns.

Lastly, as much as we all in this neighborhood feel like we own this space, this is private property and it is totally appropriate and fitting that these two educational institutions have created this partnership. When the ECC closed its doors, we feared for the worst. Visions of condos, high-rises, and McMansions destroying the view out of our front window danced in our heads. We are so glad the ECC decided to team up with Maret and keep the property centered and focused on education and recreation for children. It is the best outcome we could have hoped for and we need your help to ensure this partnership is approved, supported, and endorsed by the City. As some of the property owners most directly impacted by this proposed partnership and active members of this ANC, we want you to know we support it strongly, we think it will strengthen our community, help our property values and make our neighborhood healthier, stronger, and more diverse for years to come. Please feel free to contact us at any time if you have any questions about why we support the partnership and thank you for your consideration. We very much appreciate your dedicated efforts and leadership on behalf of the residents of this ANC District.

Sincerely,

Dear Randy,

Happy New Year!

As a long-time resident in the ANC 3/4G I am writing to express my strong support of Maret's Proposed Fields at the ECC property.

This project will benefit Maret School AND the ECC's programs to fulfill their mission. Developing quality fields for DC youth athletic organizations is important for our city. There is insufficient accessible field space for many local organizations. I strongly encourage the ANC and the BZA to approve this project AND encourage reasonable use of the fields by other DC youth groups.

I am the parent of two Maret graduates. Maret School partners well with the District and other organizations to support the needs of DC youth. Over 20 years ago, Maret established the local DC Horizons program. Maret remains a faithful partner expanding Horizons' impact in DC and Maryland. Since DC Horizons' founding, Maret has provided its campus for six weeks every summer, year-round administrative office space, and other services - all free of charge - helping Horizons fulfill its mission: a tuition-free academic and enrichment program serving over 350 students from under-resourced communities in Washington, DC and Maryland.

Maret has consistently worked closely and diligently with adjacent neighbors when developing projects. The School will continue to collaboratively address locals' concerns about ECC property. Please know Maret is a trustworthy partner that fulfills obligations. Maret enjoys the reputation as a good neighbor on 3000 Cathedral Avenue, NW - listening to, working with, and valuing neighbors and the community. Maret would be an excellent neighbor and steward for the ECC property.

Thank you for all you do for our community. Maret's Proposed Fields at the ECC property is an excellent plan with a proven and reliable DC partner.

Endorse this important project. Make positive impact on several non-profit entities and our city's student athletes.

To: Speck, Randy (SMD 3G03); Higgins, John (SMD 3G02)
I fully support the proposed partnership of Maret & ECC Partnership for new/upgraded athletic fields.

I live in Friendship Heights - in the neighborhood of the proposed athletic fields.
I also can assure you that Maret will be a considerate and welcome presence in our neighborhood.

While you will consider several opinions about this proposal I urge you to not to lose sight of why this project is so important:

These are athletic fields for our youth!! What better use of space can you imagine????!

These athletic fields will be available for special needs children!! If this aspect of the project draws opposition then I have no words to express my dismay at those fighting this project!! The athletic fields will be available to other community groups!! Are we afraid of opening up our neighborhood to others??

I understand that this project has been heavily negotiated between all the parties. It is time to stop fighting this project and move forward!!

AS A NEIGHBOR I FULLY SUPPORT THIS PROJECT TO PROVIDE OPEN SPACE FOR ATHLETIC FIELDS FOR OUR YOUTH!!!

I TRUST THAT AS OUR ANC MEMBERS YOU WILL SUPPORT THIS PROJECT!

Speck, Randy (SMD 3G03); Higgins, John (SMD 3G02)

To Mr. Speck et al,

We are writing to you today to voice our ardent support for the proposed partnership between the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) and Maret School, and to encourage your support for the upcoming field development project.

As lifetime residents of Ward 3 and parents of two current Maret students, we are intimately aware of the benefits this project would provide for both Maret students and the community at large. Maret, in its current location at 3000 Cathedral Ave, does not have adequate field space to execute its athletic program. The ECC fields would allow Maret to meet the needs of its student athletes—a core value of Maret’s mission.

Additionally, Maret’s commitment to sharing its field space with a limited number of youth sports organizations in DC would address the growing need for field space throughout the city. Maret prides itself on being a good neighbor and partner and is certain to balance the need for additional field space while being responsive and respectful of its ECC neighbors. Finally, Maret’s lease of the ECC field space will allow ECC to continue providing much needed resources for the students they serve.

It is our great hope, as residents of Ward 3, that this project will move forward without delay. Serving the needs of Maret students, the ECC, and the community at large seems a worthy use of a space that may otherwise find itself developed into something more obtrusive.

Sincerely,

ANC3/4G Chair Speck, ECC Commissioner Higgins and Councilmember Lewis-George:

As former Maret School parents and 42-year residents in ANC 3G03, we write to encourage your support for Maret School's proposed new student athletic fields on the property of the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC). Completion of this project would have substantial benefits to Maret, ECC and the Greater DC community, including:

For Maret:

- Its high school athletes would finally have regulation-size fields for their baseball, soccer, lacrosse, and football programs.

For ECC:

- The funds generated from Maret's lease would help ensure ECC's long-term viability, which would benefit the special needs children that ECC had been serving until it suspended operations in June 2019.

For the Greater DC Community:

- Maret would share the proposed athletic fields with a number of youth sports organizations that do not have access to quality playing fields.

Maret has met with neighborhood residents to address their concerns and, as a result, has committed to forgo the use of field lighting and amplified sound (other than for a shot clock for lacrosse games). In addition, Maret (i) has revised its plan to re-locate certain field elements (including retaining walls, scoreboard, batting cage, and bullpens); (ii) is evaluating ways to mitigate the transportation impact; and (iii) is actively considering more limited use of the fields by DC youth sports groups. Further, Maret plans to use the fields only during the daytime and thus has no need to install the lighting that would be needed for night games.

In view of these various benefits to the community, Maret, and ECC, as well as Maret's responsiveness to neighbors' concerns, we urge you to support Maret's proposal for new student athletic fields on the ECC property.

Respectfully submitted,

To: Higgins, John (SMD 3G02) Speck, Randy (SMD 3G03)

Dear ANC Commissioner John Higgins:

As a resident of our neighborhood for more than four decades, I'm writing to express my strong support for the Episcopal Children's Center's (ECC) plan to lease its playing fields to Maret School for use by Maret and other community groups. The plan will greatly benefit our overall community, and I urge you to vote in favor of it.

The proposal allows ECC to resume its mission on behalf of children with special needs. As you know, ECC had to close down its educational operation in June 2019, due to lack of funds. According to the Washington Post (11/28/2021), ECC lost more than $1.5 million during that final school year. Since then, ECC has been searching for a way to use its extensive grounds (sell, develop, or lease them) as a way to generate revenue to resume serving these children. The proposal ECC has developed with Maret will provide ECC with those necessary funds.

The proposal would cause only limited disruption to the surrounding neighborhood. ECC's proposal would keep the fields that are located next to ECC's main building as open space, and resume their use much as they had been used in earlier decades when ECC was first an orphanage and then a residential school.

Critically, the land would not be developed for single or multi-family housing or other purposes with extensive, potentially years-long construction. It would remain open space. Maret, to be sure, would use the fields more actively than ECC has in recent years, but Maret's use still would be limited:

- i. Maret proposes only afternoon and Saturday practice and games during the fall and spring – NO night games. --
- ii. There would be NO field lighting and NO amplified sound systems. -----
- iii. Maret proposes to build 50 off-street parking spaces on the site to ease the use of on-street parking by Maret or visiting team parents and thereby minimize the impact on the neighborhood. Maret would bus its teams to games and practice. --
- iv. Maret would renovate the fields in an environmentally sound manner – move heritage trees appropriately, build a (currently not existing) stormwater management system, and use updated, environmentally sound artificial turf.

The proposal provides opportunities for other DC youth groups to use the space. ECC and Maret both hope that the plan, once worked out completely with the neighbors and the various DC governmental bodies, would allow the use of the fields by neighborhood and community groups. As I understand, there is a shortage of space usable for youth sports all over DC. It would be a shame not to open up use of this space by a variety of diverse groups, though in a way that remains sensitive to the interest and concerns of immediate neighbors.

The proposal brings in a school with an established record of working with neighbors. Back in the 1990s, my children attended Maret School, and I was impressed by the way the Head of School, Marjo Talbott, and other staff, reached out and listened to the adjacent neighbors when the school planned renovations to its facility on Cathedral Avenue. I have no doubt that Maret would continue to do that with our Chevy Chase neighbors as it developed its plan and implemented it in the years going forward. I would expect that Maret would be an institutional neighbor as responsive to its residential neighbors as our 29th Street block has found Col. Paul Bricker and the staff at Knollwood to be.

I understand that the neighbors who live right next to the ECC fields would prefer the status quo – they would like to continue to live next to wide open fields that see little use, and no use at all by organized youth groups. But that's just not sustainable. Their ECC neighbor badly needs revenues, and Maret needs athletic fields. Other school and community youth groups also need the open fields that are in short supply in our city. This proposal provides a great opportunity to meet those needs, while still appropriately respecting the interests and needs of the neighbors. I very much hope you too will support the ECC proposal. Please let me know if I can help in any way.

Dear Michael,

We live down the street from the ECC campus, at the corner of Utah and 31st NW, and we are writing to share our support of leasing the athletic field space to Maret. Although we are a non-Maret family, we have lived in DC for many years and have spoken to many neighbors and friends about the lack of field space in DC.

We hope the ANC and Maret will work together to come up with a plan that addresses neighbor concerns in a fair and balanced way. It would be great to have Maret open up the space to the local community and non-Maret teams. I think it would be a wonderful thing for the community.

Thank you,

To: Chang, Connie (SMD 3G05)

Dear Commissioners Chang, Speck, and Higgins,

We write as residents of the Chevy Chase community in support of proposed plans to redevelop the ECC fields. The ECC grounds are a beautiful but under-utilized space in Chevy Chase. At the same time, youth sports have a lack of usable field space. We are excited by the proposal - and by Maret's commitment - to invest in the fields, to provide field space for our active sports children, and to share use on weekends. We see this as a win for the whole community. We have faith in Maret's commitment to share the space based on the long-standing community use of spaces at their existing campus. We have read the ECC proposal, and the planned use seems like it will thoughtfully build the community with little to no disruption.

We would be delighted to see this space be in better service to the community and are pleased that Maret and ECC are working to make that happen.

Sincerely,

Commissioner Higgins,

Thank you and to the rest of the ANC for allowing me the opportunity to speak. My name is Rick Juneja, and I am a proud ANC3G resident, a Maret parent, a Maret trustee, and the parent of a DC Soccer kid. I fully support the partnership that has developed between Maret and the ECC for the proposed athletic field on the ECC site. It's a great example of the types of partnerships we need more of in this city, and in our country, because it's truly a win-win-win: The ECC needs additional financial support in order to continue its own important mission, and Maret needs additional athletic field space in order to continue its own important missions. So, it's a win-win for those two organizations. But why a "win-win-win"? The third constituent in this transaction is the city of Washington and its residents and ECC neighbors.

The city gets badly needed field space without needing to spend taxpayer dollars, and the neighbors and residents get a local field for their children to play on when it's not being used by Maret. Maret has a long track record of being a generous neighbor, whether it's letting children use its playground on weekends to opening its campus to the Horizons program each summer. In other words, Maret seeks to share its resources with the surrounding communities. Maret's planned use of the ECC field would be no different, and I would encourage any of you with hesitations to keep an open mind about what life could be like once the fields have been built: fewer car trips to other neighborhoods for soccer, baseball and lacrosse games; more foot traffic in the neighborhood, and hearing the daytime sounds of young people enjoying sports. All of these benefits are on top of major infrastructure improvements that Maret has committed to doing, including, for example, building a modern stormwater management system.

In a perfect world, we wouldn't need more field space, it would just be available to all of us. However, we don't live in that perfect world. We live in Washington DC, a beautiful city where more and more parents wish to remain and raise their children, but a city where large swaths of land are owned by foreign governments and our own federal government, and are off-limits to District residents. Our city wasn't originally designed to have so many young children looking for field space, and we must get creative to meet the growing need. I applaud both ECC and Maret leadership for finding a solution that benefits all of us. I believe Maret has been very open to accommodating as many of the neighbor's requests as it can; it has revised its original design many times over, and that's a reflection of how thoughtful and conscientious a partner Maret is today and will be once the fields are ready. I strongly support the development of this property by Maret and the ECC.

Thank you very much.

Rick Juneja

Re: Support of Proposed Athletic Fields Partnership Between Maret School and the Episcopal Center for Children

Dear Randy:

We write in support of the proposed partnership between Maret School and the Episcopal Center for Children (ECC) regarding athletic fields on the ECC campus. Our house, in which we have lived since December 2007, is one block from the ECC campus. For numerous reasons, we believe that the project is clearly in the interests of the community as well as Maret and ECC. We have been Maret parents since 2005. Our older daughter attended Maret beginning in kindergarten. She graduated in 2018. Our younger daughter is currently a senior at Maret and has attended the school since kindergarten.

Over the past 16 years, we have developed a keen understanding of Maret's unsurpassed commitment to the well-being of its students and the community at large. Our neighborhood should welcome Maret's presence. We have been following the status of the project through Maret's web page (<https://www.maret.org/athletics/proposed-new-fields-at-ecc/>) and community sources (such as the Chevy Chase List Serve). Unfortunately, we have become aware that various canards and inaccurate statements by persons opposing the project have made the rounds. For example, one of the falsehoods that has been propagated is that the project was developed furtively. The public record contradicts that position. The benefits of the project are palpable. For one thing, Maret's lease payments are critical to allowing ECC to resume its operations and pursue its mission serving special needs children and their families over the long term. Maret is not using the project to generate revenue for itself (contrary to another canard). Maret needs the fields for its student-athletes to advance their development and compete with their peers.

And, true to its history of community engagement, Maret is committed to including other youth sports programs in the use of the athletic fields in an appropriate manner. Maret has made clear that the project will be undertaken in an environmentally sound way. Maret has made clear that it will appropriately address and respect neighborhood concerns regarding noise (for example, there will be no amplified sound system other than a shot clock for lacrosse games) and lighting (there will be no field lighting). Maret has carefully addressed and respected concerns of neighbors and will continue to do so. We are not surprised that some persons living in proximity to the proposed athletic fields are attempting to maintain the status quo to advance their perceived self-interest. But such opposition is, to say the least, short-sighted. The proposed Maret-ECC partnership is in the interests of both institutions as well as the entire community. We respectfully request that the ANC 3/4G support the project.

Thank you for your consideration of this letter. Please do not hesitate to contact us at 202- 595-4466 or gregory.poe@gmail.com if you have any questions or would like to engage on anything relating to the project.

Sincerely,

Gregory L. Poe

(To Commissioner Higgins)

Hi, apologies if I've missed this. I tried to find a FAQ on this issue and couldn't dig one up. We live down the street on Utah Ave, but not in the immediate blocks of ECC. We do however have two soccer players and one coach in our home, who are often schlepping to different parts of town for practices and games with DC Soccer (formerly Stoddert).

I'd like to advocate for the fields being made available during prime weekend and afternoon hours to a wider swath of kids in our community than just Maret's students - and not just the hours around the edges of the evenings and weekends. Not sure I can attend the evening meetings to make this point of view known.

Often we're at practices at Jelleff, another field that Maret has both improved, and taken a disproportionate amount of use for their exclusive use, at the Palisades rec center (where parking and traffic must be disruptive to those poor neighbors), Carter Barron (which is convenient and reasonably maintained) and at a private school in Bethesda that makes its fields available to Stoddert for rental.

I really wish there had been a way to purchase the open parcel for use for our overcrowded school, but, next best use is for an environmentally friendly/low impact way for people (including children) who live in the area, and sports teams that serve kids who live in the area, to use it, and for it to be made available for wider use.

Thank you,

Michelle Cooper (6515 Utah Ave NW)

Tom McLish

(To Commissioner Zeldin)

Hi Michael,

I'm a 20+-year homeowner in 3G04. We lived on 33rd St for 18 years and are now on Patterson St. between 32nd and 33rd. We can see ECC from our top floor window.

I wanted to register my 100% support for the arrangement between Maret and ECC to build a baseball diamond and multi-use field on the currently unused ECC property behind the main building. For years and years I have walked my dog past that property and thought that it is a shame that it is going unused. Space like that is such a rarity in DC and it should be put to use. Of course it will eventually going to be developed in some way, especially when ECC announced a couple of years ago that it was essentially shutting down. So I was thrilled when I heard last year that a plan was in the works and that it involved creating playing fields, rather than a housing development, senior living facility or something along those lines. I was also glad to hear that ECC elected to go with Maret. My three kids went to Maret (all are graduates – we have no affiliation with the school currently) and the one thing I can tell you about that school is that they are all about being exemplary citizens of their community. I doubt that there is any other organization that ECC might have partnered with that would be more focused on doing the right thing with that property and the surrounding neighborhood than Maret. That includes the District – just look at how poorly they maintain the grounds at Lafayette.

I understand why people whose houses abut the property or are across from it on Nebraska have concerns. Anyone would. It is my understanding that Maret is addressing the reasonable concerns, such as a formal 50-year commitment not to add lighting or a sound system. To the extent folks are objecting to the plan in its entirety (I don't know of any who are, except for people quoted in the Post), I believe that is unreasonable. That property is not going to sit unused for much longer and the other alternative uses are almost certainly worse. It is only because ECC has been unable financially to make full use of that space that it has sat unused for all these years. It is not reasonable to buy a house next to a school and then object to it being used for quintessentially school-type activities.

In short, I wholeheartedly support the plan. It will be great for the neighborhood, certainly much better than any plausible alternative. It will allow ECC to get back on its feet. It will create much-needed field space for others, not just Maret. The space will no longer be an empty expanse surrounded by “No Trespassing” signs. The storm water runoff situation will be dramatically improved.

Thanks for reading and for all you are doing as our commissioner. I would be happy to discuss this with you.

Best regards

Tom McLish

Chang, Connie (SMD 3G05)

Dear Ms. Chang,

I am writing to share the reasons for my support of the proposal for the Maret School to lease, develop and support recreational space at the Episcopal Children's Center. My husband and I have lived in Ward 3 at 3502 Runnymede Place NW since 1981 and we have raised four children in this neighborhood. All four of our children attended Lafayette Elementary School and I served as Lafayette Home and School President for several years. My children later attended Deal Junior High and Maret School for High School. I am now the grandmother of four children who live in this neighborhood and all of them will attend Lafayette Elementary School.

I am enthusiastically supportive of the proposal because it will enhance the access to needed field space for all of the children in our community and improve the community's quality of life. The Episcopal Home space is not currently being used and is not benefitting the community. There are a shortage of fields both for use by schools and the general community.

I have reviewed Maret's site plans and believe they preserve environmental and neighborhood integrity. Maret's planners are aware of and the plans have been developed to mitigate the concerns of adjacent neighbors. I also know that Maret has always been a respectful neighbor in the Cleveland Park community and will be so in our neighborhood. They have indicated and demonstrated their willingness to work with the community to make adjustment to mitigate any real problems that have been identified in their plans.

I believe that not approving this proposal will be a missed opportunity for our community and for the children who live there.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Judith Meltzer

Subject: Official Comments in support of Maret's proposed athletic field at ECC site

Dear 3G03@anc.dc.gov

I offer strong support for Maret's proposed athletic field at the Episcopal Children's Center (ECC) site in NW DC. Knowing Maret, they will continue to be responsive to community input while being open and transparent about both what they need for use of the site and their strong values of inclusion and support for the broader DC community.

First, leasing the site to Maret provides a means for ECC to continue to meet its mission to educate and support child development and will ensure the site's primary use continues. With this agreement ECC can restart its K-8 school for children with emotional challenges, which was closed at least temporarily for lack of resources. ECC has also sought out Maret as a partner since their use of the site will meet the needs of children in the community.

Second, this is not intense use of the site. Maret students will only use the field after school hours during the week and only on occasional weekends. There will only be one game at a time. There will be no lights on the field so activity must stop at sundown. Other users of the site, for soccer and baseball, will be one game at a time. There will not be multiple users or multiple games.

Third, this is the lower disturbance of the site than alternatives. The permeable surface of the artificial turf and development of a plan for water runoff and management is something that does not exist now and will enhance rather than worsen existing water management issues.

This is all about the mutually supportive missions of ECC and Maret -- clearly its not about the money. If this transaction was about the money the ECC could just sell the site to a developer for denser mixed use residential and commercial development as has been promoted throughout the city. As for Maret, they will not be making money off of sublease to DC youth sports groups. Maret subleases provide a means for Maret to carry through on commitments to community.

Maret can hold any sub-leasees accountable for responsible use of the field(s) while meeting Maret values of sharing its assets so that it can serve the interests of a broader DC community when available. Furthermore, Maret plans to charge minimal costs to sub-lessees in order to maintain the fields after proposed uses. Maret's commitment to the community would not leave this important asset dormant while its students are not using it, which is much of the time!

Full disclosure, I am the parent of a Maret Alumnus which gives me both more insight about the school but also no direct benefit from having a field nearby since it was over a decade ago. Second, I also live within the Small Area Plan zone for Chevy Chase DC's Connecticut Avenue Corridor slated for higher density development so I understand angst of the site's neighbors about proposed change from its undisturbed state but also potential for other types of development.

Maret is anything but "elitist" as might be assumed from the "elite" placed before its name in some communications. Maret works hard to value diverse cultures and communities, to partner with community schools, to support its students by nurturing a student body that reflects the broader community makeup to prepare all its students to contribute to the real world.

I am not dismissing those who have raised concerns, but rather putting them in context. I trust the public review process, but also know that comments are often offered by those with concerns rather than support, so I am weighing in. The Maret sports field project provides an important asset to the community, ensures responsible use, minimizes potential adverse impacts, and secures productive use of the property consistent with its long term land use.

Thanks for listening.

Dear Mr. Zeldin,

I hope this email finds you well.

I wanted to write to express my support for the project that Maret School is proposing for the field at ECC. I am a longtime resident of Chevy Chase DC and also a longtime parent at Maret. From those perspectives, I can say two things: (1) It would be great to see the ECC property actually used in a way that benefits the overall community and, in particular, children. It's a beautiful and easily-accessible location, and the proposed plan shows that it can be adapted for sports use with minimal impact on the land or the surrounding area. (2) I can say with the utmost confidence that Maret is a wonderful neighbor and community member. Maret is a very small school, and the proposed use of the ECC field will not somehow transform the area into a massive sports destination, as some have suggested. Due to the size of the school, the teams are typically relatively small, and so the number of attendees at Maret games is similarly modest when compared to much larger schools.

I would be happy to discuss the proposal at any time, as would other members of the local and Maret communities.

Happy Holidays,

Kevin Hardy

Bethany Velasco (To Commissioner Gore)

Hello Lisa,

My husband Joel and I live at 6352 31st Place NW and have two sons at Maret in 10th and 8th grades.

I write in support of the Maret proposed athletic fields at ECC. The many advantages of this partnership include, but are not limited to: The sounds and sights of young people and children playing; A well-taken care of property, complete with landscaping and trees receiving appropriate attention from arborists, proper drainage, etc;

Use by two long-established DC constituents - Maret School and the ECC - through a partnership that benefits both, as well as others in the community.

Maret is actively addressing neighbor concerns with good faith and willingness to negotiate. I request that you keep an open mind as you proceed with this process.

Thank you,

Bethany Velasco

(To Commissioner Chang)

Commissioner Chang,

My name is Will Leibner, I live at 3701 Northampton St NW and wanted to express my unequivocal support for the Maret athletic fields project at the ECC on Utah Avenue. The space is completely underutilized now. Maret's plan is measured, reasonable and would bring fantastic opportunities for youth sports activity to the neighborhood beyond just Maret student-athletes.

Frankly, when I hear about some of the NIMBYism resistance to this neighborhood improvement, I fear that our neighborhood will be forever stuck in a resistance-focused mindset. Let's be good partners with Maret and bring a fantastic addition to the community.

Thank You.

Will Leibner

Commissioner Randy Spec Randy.Spec@anc.dc.gov, Commissioner Thomas Quinn 3E04@anc.dc.gov

Dear Commissioners Speck and Quinn,

As a parent and resident in NW DC (ANC 3E, single member district SMD 3E04), I write to wholeheartedly endorse the Maret School and Episcopal Center For Children's planned leasing arrangement for the development of athletic fields on the ECC campus. For full disclosure, I am also a parent at Maret. As any parent of a young athlete in DC knows, field space in DC is extremely tight. We've signed up for several DC-based leagues for my eight-year old son that end up scheduling all of their games in Montgomery County. We end up getting ice cream, gasoline, groceries and buying other food right after these games in Montgomery County because that is where we happen to be. I'd much rather be contributing to DC's economy and supporting DC-based businesses.

Creative solutions to expand field space within DC like the one presently under consideration – and especially ones between private entities that benefit the wider public – should be encouraged. I've lived in the District and in several different neighborhoods for twenty years and am very invested in it prospering while retaining its essential character. That's a tricky balance, but if our great city wants to attract more and more residents and businesses, it will need to accommodate the needs that flow from those decisions. This includes expanding field space.

The Maret-ECC partnership seems to do that without sacrificing any public lands, which seems to be a win-win for everyone.

All the best

To: "Speck, Randy (SMD 3G03)" <3G03@anc.dc.gov>

Dear Randy,

I am writing to you in support of the proposal to use the ECC property on Nebraska Avenue as a multi-use athletic field. I am a resident of the ANC (3907 Jocelyn Street) and also a Maret parent – although both of our children will have graduated before the proposed field would be available for use.

While I strongly value the luxury of having a pristine, semi-private park on the property, I also recognize that it is unrealistic (and probably a little selfish) to expect it to stay that way forever. Given the realities of the situation at ECC, I can think of no better outcome than the proposed plan to convert the site into an athletic field for Maret.

I can speak first-hand to Maret's commitment to being a good neighbor. My wife and I lived for 15 years literally around the corner from the Maret campus in Woodley Park, and we always viewed it as a positive force in our neighborhood—both before we had children and as young parents. We have fond memories of playing on the Maret playground and visiting their annual fete with toddlers in tow – welcomed as neighbors, even though we weren't parents at the school.

Indeed, our decision to send our kids to Maret (after they aged out of our local elementary school) was driven in large part by the welcoming, diverse and open community that we already enjoyed at the school.

Now that I am a Maret parent, I can see that the sense of community is no accident. The school deeply values being in every sense a good neighbor and a positive force in the broader community. I know Maret is listening carefully to ECC's neighbors to help make sure that the proposed new fields will be a great asset to the neighborhood for years to come.

I also want to speak as a long-time DC resident who raised two children who played recreational sports (softball, baseball and soccer) in the city. I know how important it was to our children to have that experience: the exercise, the fun, and the socialization (to say nothing of how much we as parents benefited from socializing with other parents when our kids were very little.)

I also remember well how those activities involved driving to another neighborhood to use a field – and, occasionally, having games cancelled or rescheduled because a field was unavailable. Simply put, DC needs more high quality athletic fields that the community can use. I know Maret is committed to making the field available to other organizations (including DC Soccer). While that may feel like a further disruption to the status quo, I strongly believe the neighborhood and the city overall will benefit greatly from having more fields to support youth athletics.

I also know how much my family benefited from using fields that other neighborhoods supported. I hope our neighborhood can do the same for others in the future.

Thank you for your attention and your work on behalf of us all at the ANC. I would happily provide any additional information you might want.

Best,

Mike

Dear Ms. Lisa Gore,

I'm writing to express my support for the athletic fields at ECC project proposed by the Maret School. I am a resident of ANC 3/4G-01 and an '01 alumnus of Maret. I can remember how difficult it was to secure field space for athletics when I attended Maret 20 years ago and it is disheartening to know that this is still an issue for the school. From everything I've learned about this project, however, it truly sounds like a win-win for both Maret and ECC. I am also the father of a 5-year-old daughter who loves to play soccer in the neighborhood and I look forward to kicking a soccer ball around with her on these fields one day. Please take note of my support and I look forward to lending further support to this project throughout the ANC and BZA process. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

To: Speck, Randy (SMD 3G03); Higgins, John (SMD 3G02)

Dear Randy and John,

I write today to voice my support for the ECC-Maret partnership relating to the planned development of the grounds of the ECC. While I have two children currently enrolled at Maret, one of whom will benefit from the project, my association with the immediate vicinity of the ECC predates my connection to Maret and will endure long after their departures from the School. Over the years, I have become quite familiar with the property that anchors the corner of Nebraska and Utah Aves. The distinguished campus atop the hill is immediately recognizable to thousands of residents as they traverse the Nebraska & Utah corridors and in many respects, its presence provides steady reassurance that one has arrived in their home neighborhood. So I approach the development of the property with a durable relationship to this unique subsection of Chevy Chase, D.C. and over time, I, and countless others, have regularly speculated about what would become of the ECC land if and when it was no longer able to continue operations. Now, the day has arrived for the neighborhood to address its future and the ECC-Maret partnership is, without question, a terrific solution for all stakeholders.

Maret leadership has done a splendid job developing and messaging the contours of the project, the core of which (i) advances Maret's ability to cultivate and sustain their impressive and winning athletic program, (ii) preserves the potential ability of the ECC to resume programming, and (iii) adds accessible and safe outdoor space for local youth sports organizations and neighborhood families. The project strives to maintain a level of tranquility that typifies the historic use of the land but also balances the demands associated with activity on a site that lies in a densely populated neighborhood. Please know that Maret's commitment and attention to the concerns of the community, particularly the considerable effort currently being made to accommodate the interests of the residents whose properties are in very close proximity to the grounds, is representative of the level of excellence and community-oriented collaboration that pervades Maret's affairs and should provide serious encouragement to all stakeholders that Maret is, and will continue to be, an exceptional partner for many many years to come.

I am very excited and I look forward to participating in the ANC discussions over the next several months. Thank you,

Jay Ingram
